

THE BONNIWELLS

UNPROFITABLE SERVANT CD

Channeling the punk ethic of yesteryear and combining a marriage of super-cool garage, hyperactive surf guitar, gymnastic mod out-takes, swampy badass, and garage explosions comes the debut CD Unprofitable Servant by Melbourne trio The Bonniwells, due for release in late November, 2010 on Z-Man Records.

Unprofitable Servant is reminiscent of dropping a coin in an interpretive 60s psych-garage jukebox.... their music comes at you like a king wave of jangled guitars, screams and howls, and a driving rhythmic drum beat. The band features members of The Frowning Clouds, Bleach and Last Gypsies.

The Bonniwells is what happens when you combine three rascals muddling about in their garages, coupled with a box of matches and steady diet of The Cramps, The Sonics, Brian Jonestown Massacre, Black Lips, Daniel Johnson, The Monks, and Thee Oh Sees. They produce sounds that are guaranteed to crack your finest china with their libidinous howls.

Whilst gnawing on the bones of yesterday, and consisting of Marck Dean (vocals/guitar), John Waddell (bass) and Zac Olsen (drums), The Bonniwells manage to somehow produce a fresh take on the past, whilst creating an in-sound of now with their musical collaborations.

Having played consistently around Melbourne recently including residencies at Cherry and The Grace Darling, The Bonniwells will be launching the album late December. More details soon.

Unprofitable Servant will be available from November 20 at all good record shacks (via Z-Man Records/Fuse Distribution) and CD Baby, iTunes etc.
